To some of the books of minor importance, the prices and the names of the publishers have, however, not been affixed; these may be readily ascertained on application to a good retail bookseller. If any difficulty be experienced by Boards or Masters in procuring from Ontario booksellers the French or the German works, the former may be obtained from C. Schoenhof, Boston, or F. CATALOGUE OF BOOKS

RECOMMENDED FOR

HIGH SCHOOL REFERENCE LIBRARIES.

FIRST EDITION. SEPTEMBER, 1888.

High School libraries should consist of two classes of works: Books of Reference, and General Literature. Of these classes, High School boards should provide books of reference first. To aid them in making a proper selection, the following recommendatory list has been prepared by the Education Department. A supplement will be issued and the list revised from time to time. Those works which are especially suitable for Two Masters' Schools are marked with asterisks in all the departments except "Editions of Authors" and "Miscellaneous Literature," and "Historical Novels," "Travels," and "Biography." At least one edition of each important author should be provided. The prices below are, in most cases, Canadian retail prices; on these, publishers and booksellers give varying discounts.

Except, for special reasons, in one or two instances, the following list does not contain the names of text-books authorized by the Education Department or prescribed by the different Universities. Such of these as are found necessary should be provided for Reference Libraries.

II. GRAMMAR, PHILOLOGY, HISTORY OF THE LANGUAGE, ETC.

History of the English Language. By Prof. T. R. LOUNSBURY. Henry Holt & Co. $1.25.

Part I. of this volume deals with the general history of the language; Part II. with the history of the inflections. The book is one of the best popular treatises on the subject.

An English Grammar. Methodical, Analytical and Historical. With a treatise on the Orthography, Prosody, Inflections and Syntax of the English Tongue; and numerous authorities cited in the order of historical development. By Prof. MAETZNER, of Berlin. Translated by C. J. GRECE. Three vols. John Murray. $12.50. Roberts Bros. $15.00.

Valuable chiefly for its collection of examples. The translation is not a good one, nor is the book valuable from a syntactical point of view.

An Examination of the Functional Elements of an English Sentence. By W. G. WRIGHTSON, M.A. Macmillan & Co. $1.75.

The best book on the subject. It is "a contribution towards the study of English Grammar on such principles as may make our mother tongue the best possible foundation for the study of kindred types of speech. It is a work on that analysis of a sentence which, by laying bare the elements of spoken thought, affords the only solid foundation for Comparative Grammar."

Chief features: (1) Lays stress on the sentence as expressing the closest relation of language to thought; (2) carefully distinguishes throughout between sounds and written signs; (3) enumerates, classifies, and illustrates the laws of sound-change; (4) dwells on the progress of English from the inflectional to its present analytical state; it therefore remodels the arrangement of Syntax so as to present its treatment from the analytical point of view.

Essential Lessons in English Etymology. Comprising the History, Derivation, Composition and Relationship of English Words. By JOHN G. R. McELROY, M.A. A. C. Armstrong & Son. $1.25.

Probably the best elementary work on the subject.

A Handbook of Phonetics. Including a popular exposition of the Principles of Spelling Reform. By HENRY SWEET. Clarendon Press. $1.40.

In view of the importance of the Science of Phonetics the elements of this subject should be taken up in High Schools as being the indispensable foundation of all study of language.

III.—ELOCUTION.

Analytic Elocution. By JAMES E. MURDOCH. Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. $1.50.

An excellent practical treatise on voice-culture and expressive reading, scientific in treatment but somewhat prolix. Upon it the technical part of the introduction to the High School Reader is confessedly based. The principles which in the introduction are necessarily very concisely stated are there greatly amplified and plentifully illustrated.

Plea for Spoken Language. By JAMES E. MURDOCH. Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. 12mo, cloth. $1.50.

Contains a plea for the study of spoken language; history of the development of the best system of elocution including brief statement of systems formerly used, and an appendix containing Barber's Essay on Rhythmics and Hill's Essay on Elocution. The book is especially valuable in developing the functions of the human larynx and giving flexibility, beauty, facility, and permanent power to the human voice.

The Philosophy of the Human Voice. By Dr. JAMES RUSH. Lippincott & Co. $4.50.

The elementary nature and functions of vocabulary are analysed, the movements of the voice are measured by a fixed scale and recorded by intelligible symbols. The book is philosophic and argumentative, but is too diffuse for ordinary use. It is valuable for reference in connection with Murdoch's Analytic Elocution, in which its theories are developed and rendered practical.
